COPYING

We have often wondered what scholarship amounted to unless it was molded on a background and a foundation of character and ethical concepts. A case in mind is of the bright young boy who was announced winner in a contest sponsored by the radio favorite, Eddie Cantor. He offered a $5,000 scholarship to the writer of an essay on peace. A winner was chosen and great fanfare, and then it was announced that investigation showed he had COPIED his essay word for word. It wasn't his own at all. Of course the award was given to someone else. But the amazing part is that the first boy felt he had done no wrong in copying. To us, this incident hits at the weakest link of our national educational system. "Copying" is a national menace in our best elementary and secondary schools. We would like to see all schools rededicate themselves to the teaching of ethics.

FROM A LETTERHEAD

We recently received a store letterhead containing the lines: "We advertise what we sell, what we sell advertises us."

We will pass over the question as to whether or not the first half of that statement was true in the case of that particular store, for this is not a lecture on that angle of advertising. But we do call attention to the concluding clause. The goods you handle and the type of service you render can and does advertise you, either for good or bad. That is among the customers you Already Have. We might change the thought to the general truth that everything you do or say, advertises you to the world. To that extent all of us are in the "advertising business."

SCHOOL GIRL'S CREED

An unusual prize-winner is Fauchie Yanagisawa, 13 year old Japanese school girl of Berkley, Cal. Her "Creed on the American flag" won a trophy in a state American Legion contest.

In an interview she said: "My father and mother were born in Japan, but I am a native of this land of the Stars and Stripes, so I am glad to be an American." Here is her prize-winning creed:

"I pledge allegiance to you, flag of my United States, in word and deed. I believe that you will help me to be a loyal citizen to use and war. I believe that you will lead the world not only in strength but in righteousness; I believe that your stars are a shining symbol of the eternal brotherhood of man in this world. Old Glory, as I salute and salute your heroic colors of red, white and blue, I promise to follow your ideals of liberty, justice and peace, not only for America, but for the world."

History of Maple Grove Baptist Church

The following is a history of the Maple Grove Baptist church, as remembered by the writer, who was a girl in her "teens" when it was organized in the year 1887.

B. C. Heming was Colporteur for the mission board. He commenced with a monthly meeting or service at the James River school house about a mile from where Maple Grove now stands. This service increased in interest until it was decided to build a church. W. N. Dixon secured his letter from the Mineral Springs church; James Good won secured his from Liberty Chapel, and C. M. Dixon from Aerial. They organized the church and with the help of Jeff Phelps, John Harris and others went to work and built it at once. B. C. Heming was pastor for awhile, until a more promising position was offered him, which he accepted.

J. J. Spencer was called and he preached there for several years until failing health and the distance he had to travel forced him to give up the work. The next pastor called was Dr. W. A. Mosby. He was only preached for a short time; he was not able to do the work. It was through him though that we secured the service of R. D. White, a promising young minister, who preached his first sermon in Maple Grove. The church had gone down in and several members had left, but under his pastorate the church gained ground. When he was called to a better position at the expiration of five years, the church was in fine condition. The members were loth to see him him leave. Another young minister H. D. Farris, was called and accepted the call, but he only stayed a short while and the church was again was without a shepherd. Rev. J. H. Gordan, who was pastor of Liberty Chapel kindly consented to preach for us in the afternoon on the third Sunday until we could do better. The service in the afternoon did not give satisfaction. Brother Gordon was a fine old Christian soldier. Hereee Peyne, a young man who was just entering the ministry was called and accepted. He had supplied at the church for only a short while and was attending the Fork Union Acad., when the flu epedemic took him for one of its victoms. He was such a fine young man and so enthused with his work to be cut down in the prime of life, but God knows best for us all.

Dr. L. R. Thornhill was called next. He served only a short while but was instrumental in securing the services of B. L. Petties to become our pastor. And never during the history of the church were we blessed with a pastor who did more cheerful pastorsl work. The train schedule was so bad, he was forced to give up the charge. There were no trains in these days. We then secured the service of J. E. Kurger, and he served until we went into a field and W. C. Hughes took charge of the field, and was all we could expect of a young man until he decide to attend the Louisville Seminary to complete his education.

T. E. Gold was then called and supplied the field very satisfactorily until he too saw better things in view for him and he left.

The church then called Rev. Gray L. Ligon, who is still here and the writer must hand it to him to say that we have had fine Christian men, but none better than he.

I wish I could give the dates that each minister was here, but that I cannot do. If anyone can give a better history of the church please do so and thank them.

(Editor's note: We are indebted to Mrs. Jack Creek for the above account. Mrs. Manning's finest Christian citizens of the county, and has been much to the growth of the church in her section.)

THE LETTER B

We are glad to publish the following letter and of endorsement. Its sentiments. —Editor.

Mrs. S. L. Ferguson,
Appomattox, Va.

Dear Mrs. Ferguson,

I received the memorial of your illustrious husband who was a great friend of mine. I have read, and re-read a large part of it. It was a sad pleasure to me, as of meeting with him in the flesh, as of old and discussing matters that were near and dear to both of us. I live just across the line in Campbell county, but I always felt that his interest was my interest and my interest his. In fact, much of my life has been spent among the people of Appomattox county. But the town of Appomattox no longer looks like the same place to me since I cannot see Sam Ferguson around there any more. I remember the last time I had a long talk with him in his home he said to me: "Ben how long has it been that we have had a fondness for each other?" I had to tell him I did not know, but it had been a long time. And when I was about to leave he put his arms around me and gave me a hug that sent such a thrill over me that I was unable to speak for awhile. Since that time I have often wondered how a prominent man, holding the positions that he did one of one who was his citizen with no influence whatever, could fill his place in the world much harder to find fill his place in the people. This is a man to be filled during the read with much pleasure monials from his fellow senate, the men who to shoulder with him of the commonwealth testimonial comes from citizen who has been him than love and esteem though I shall see him in this life, he will warm place in my heart.

From an old friend,
B. B. W.

Copies of the Appomattox Edition of this newspaper are in demand by many prominent men and citizens interested in its history. We are still receiving letters of congratulation on the paper of that date. Extra space does permit publication of them.

AT THE ISIS

With a story as dizzy as the song from which it takes its name, "The Music Goes Round" plays at the Isis Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. It is whirlwind entertainment and has singing, dancing and comedy. Harry Richmon, famed New York entertainer, and Rochelle Hudson take the leads and are supported by Walter Connolly, Lionel Stander, Douglass Dumbrille a n d those two songsmiths, Farley and Riley. "The Music Goes Round" is at the Isis next Monday and Tuesday.

"Mutiny on the Bounty" is at the Isis Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

Tim McCoy, virile star of many a Western thriller, offers his latest picture "Rootin' Guns" to his fans at the Isis Theatre next Friday and Saturday.

AT THE PARAMOUNT

As a worthy successor to "It Happened One Night" the Paramount Theatre offers its patrons next Monday and Tuesday "Love On A Bet". "Love On a Bet" has in its stellar cast three outstanding performers in the picture is sprinkled liberally with laughs and fun galore and Gene Raymond in his mad transcontinental dash finds himself time after time involved in situations requiring the utmost in ingenuity to emerge victorious.

The much talked about picture, "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" with Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur finally comes to town for a four day run at the Paramount. It will be at the Paramount Theatre next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and Saturday.

Robinson - Terry Wedding

The wedding of Miss Mary West Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Terry of Pamplin, to Mr. Patrick Alexander Robinson was solemnized on Saturday April 11 at high noon at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. M. Black, pastor of the bride, before an improvised altar of palms and cathedral candles. The bride wore a suit of navy with matching accessories. Her flowers were lillies of the valley and pink rose buds. The wedding music was played by Miss Katherine Franklin, accompanied by Miss Mary L. Booker.

The bride is a graduate of the Harrisonburg State Teachers College and a member of the faculty of the Appomattox high school. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lucian Robinson, of King William county. He is a graduate of the V. P. I. and holds a position as agricultural engineer in Charlotte county.

"My next refrigerator will be KELVINATOR"

Model illustrated is K 5-36

We, too, say the 1936 Kelvinator is a fine refrigerator. We like the way the company has answered the questions wise buyers ask—about temperatures, operating cost, and service

It has answered with Visible Cold—a Built-In Thermometer shows you that your food is being kept surely, safely, dependably cold.

It has answered with Visible Economy—for not only does the new Kelvinator use one-half to one-third the current—but a Certificate of Low Cost of Operation shows you, in advance, that current consumption will be amazingly low.

It has answered with Visible Protection—for a 5-year Protection Plan gives you signed assurance of long years of service.

And the 1936 Kelvinator is a beautiful refrigerator . . . designed with the aid of Count Alexis de Sakhnoffsky. Furthermore, it has dozens of conveniences to lighten the work of preparing meals.

So come in and see the 1936 Kelvinator. It will pay for itself and the terms are so easy that it just seems foolish not to own one!
